Austria-Hungary Issues What Is Considered to Be An Ultimatum

LONDON, April 24.—In diplomatic quarters in London tonight the belief prevailed that Montenegro would yield to the powers on the Scutari question, and it was reported that Montenegro had made an informal suggestion regarding a new frontier line in this district, giving her territorial and other advantages, including possession of the town of Berdica and both banks of the Boyana river.

The new frontier, which it is stated, Montenegro has proposed as compensation for the loss of Scutari, would run northwest of Vrakia through Koplik to Kalrum, on Lake Scutari. This line of territory, although very mountainous, is important to Montenegro because it affords a natural road to Ipek, avoiding a great detour. From Berdica the line would run to the coast north of San Giovanni di Medua.

According to the latest news, Austria has not stipulated any time limit for the evacuation of Scutari. It is reported that Austria has organized an expedition of 40,000 men completely organized to coerce Montenegro, if necessary.

Serious pro-Montenegro demonstrations occurred among Austria's Slav subjects on the fall of Scutari at Prague, Wagram and other cities. They were suppressed by the police and all similar demonstrations have been forbidden.

Other States Accede.
ROME, April 24.—Representations have been made to Montenegro, it is known here today, in which the attention of the Cretian government is called to the fact that all the Balkan states have bowed to the decision of the powers, inspired by the supreme interests of Europe.

Bulgaria, it was pointed out, had renounced her decision to continue her movement of the army toward Constantinople. Serbia had given up the support of Durazzo. Greece had abstained from permanently occupying the town of Valona, and Montenegro must evacuate Scutari.

Such a move on the part of Montenegro, it is considered here, would not imply any loss of dignity after her occupation of the city. If the European powers are denied in the matter of Scutari, it is affirmed, the other Balkan states also would have the right to realize their aspirations.

Italy, close followers of the Balkan situation, were ready to have war rather than to allow Greece to occupy Valona, and Austria also would rather go to war than allow a change in the boundary of northern Albania, as arranged by the London ambassadorial conference. Consequently, the Cretian government, it is understood, has been told that it will be impossible to allow a European conflagration simply to please Montenegro.

PROGRESSIVES IN FIGHT ON TARIFF

PROPOSE MEASURE FOR DEMOCRATIC BILL

Three-Cornered Contest Is Bitterly Waged in House of Representatives

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Republicanism was described as "dead, damned and lost forever." Democracy was accused of rubbing to "clean its feet" on the Progressive party door-mat, and the Progressive party was characterized as a "branch shot from the dead Republican trunk" in the three-cornered tariff debate in the house today.

Representatives Hamilton and Fordney of Michigan took up the cudgels for the Republican minority, the latter bitterly assailing the sugar schedule and the free listing of lumber and wool as ruinous on American industry. Representative Hamilton ridiculed the Democrats and criticized the president.

"With the cocksureness of the man accustomed to instruct the immature mind of youth," he said, "the president, in his address to congress, undertook to settle in eight minutes problems that have vexed the minds of statesmen for more than a hundred years."

Progressives in the Fight.
Representative Hinebaugh of Illinois and Representative Hullings of Pennsylvania attacked the Underwood bill on behalf of the Progressive party.

Representative Hullings declared the bill would not curb monopoly nor reduce the cost of living. He predicted that if President Wilson could convince the people that its tariff ideas were right, "the Democratic party would remain in power for the next 20 years."

Mr. Hinebaugh charged that the pending bill was a compromise between the power of special privileges and the power of political patronage, and he accused the Democrats and Republicans of falling over themselves in an attempt to clean "their feet on the Progressive party door-mat."

Representative Hammond of Minnesota and Representative Peters of Massachusetts defended the bill on behalf of the Democratic ways and means committee, asserting that it was an honest effort to lighten the burdens of the people and that it stripped the tariff of its discriminations and privileges to the favored few.

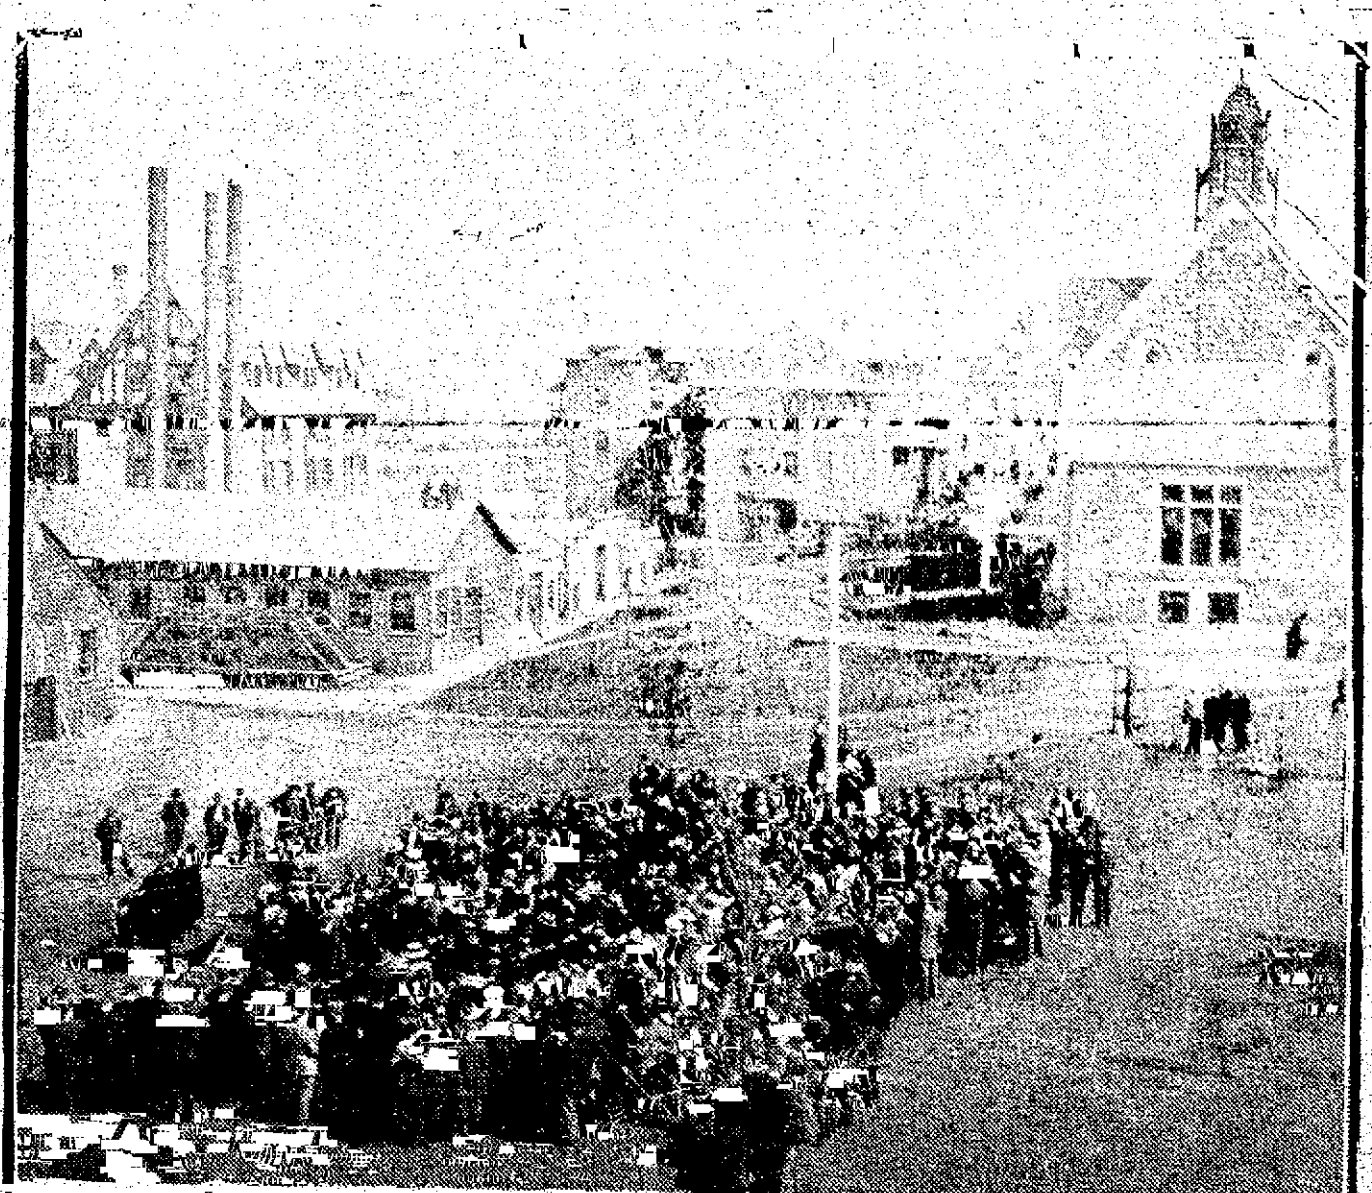

New Members Loyal.
New Democratic members, among them Representative Aswell of Louisiana, Quinn of Mississippi and Barker of Kentucky, expressed loyalty to their party, and the bill and urged the Progressives to create discord in the Democratic ranks.

Mr. Aswell declared that the Progressives were only "one per cent Bill Moose" and the other 99 per cent merely were trying to disrupt the Democratic party by sowing discord among the new members of the house.

Representatives Barker assailed the tariff committee proposal of the Progressives, which he described as a "mere branch shot from the trunk of Republicanism." He reminded the Republicans that it was too late for them now to mourn, and declared that their party had been "damned and lost forever."

The debate was kept up until the house adjourned for the Republicans to hold a scheduled caucus.

Importance Physical Education Emphasized at Ground Breaking for F. H. Cossitt Hall

Frederick H. Cossitt hall, the new men's building at Colorado college, which is to be erected this summer at a cost of $100,000, was formally dedicated to the theory that physical development in a college education is as important as mental development, when President William F. Slocum turned the first spadeful of earth at the ground-breaking exercises yesterday morning.

The ceremonies, realizing the completion of one of the most successful campaigns in President Slocum's 25 years of service at the institution. The committee in charge of the exercises had chosen the presidents of the senior and junior classes to formally break the ground. Thomas Lynch, Jr., executive of the graduating class, handed the black and gold decorated spade to the president, stating that it was fitting that the man who had worked so long and so hard for the realization of a men's building should turn the first earth in the excavation for the structure. Mrs. Slocum, representing Mrs. A. D. Juillard of New York city, turned the next spadeful and Mr. Lynch and Miss Frances Adams, the latter president of the junior class, each turned a spadeful of earth.

President Slocum's address was a remarkable one, setting forth his advanced ideas on the importance of physical development in education. He dwelt at length on this theme, and his address paid a tribute to Mrs. Juillard, donor of the funds for the building.

Other Features of Ceremony.
The exercises included selections by the college orchestra, the girls' and men's glee clubs, singing of the college hymn, a prayer by President Slocum, and the addresses. Claude J. Rothgeb, athletic coach, who will be director of the new building and gymnasium, made a striking speech setting forth his views of the uses to which the building can be put, and his hopes and ideas for the development of physical education among the men.

Glenn Bowers, president of the student commission, paid a tribute to the efforts and energy of President Slocum in securing the building, and stated that the student body were glad to have done their share in the work.

College songs and cheers for Mrs. Juillard and the unknown donor of $50,000 ended the ceremonies. The student body then adjourned for the annual all-college picnic in the Garden of the Gods. Pennant hints in the gateway tracks, races of various kinds, a ball game between the seniors and juniors which the latter won by the score of 3 to 2, and a catered dinner made up the program.

President Slocum's address struck a chord in advanced educational ideas, and his declaration that the true education must deal with every phase of a man's activities, struck a responsive chord. The address in full was as follows:

Address by Dr. Slocum.
Every building which is erected for a college should express in some way the end for which the institution was established. It should be the result of careful thinking and accurate adjustment to the purpose for which it exists. Each hall that has gone up on this campus is a serious attempt to solve a problem in higher education. The outcome of at least one of these efforts is the building on the part of business and scientific men, rendering its service successfully in the life of the college because it was not the result of careless or inaccurate tent authorities, but was the result of reflection upon education, and the development and cultivation of women students in an American college. Everything that is worth while must have thought behind it; it must be the outcome of some far-reaching purpose. It must be in harmony with the ideal which led to the creation of a movement or an institution. It is this which lays foundations deep and strong.

Colorado college was established to train men and women for citizenship in the life of the nation and of the world. It seeks to produce men of character and cultivation. As far as possible, it has been the aim of its administration to do well whatever it undertakes, to maintain high ethical and intellectual standards, and thus to make this a seat of learning, from which shall go forth leaders who will do their work as God calls them to do it.

To Create Well Rounded Men.
In this purpose to create well-developed, well-trained and well-rounded men, there has been the ideal of "the perfect man" with his moral, intellectual and physical self developed, and with each part coordinated with every other part.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24.—Charges similar in their nature to those which stirred the New York police force to its depths a short time ago, developed today closely upon the suspension of eight men by Chief White. The charges, so far unsupported, were made by Maurice de Martini, a convicted bimbo man awaiting sentence, and involve the allegation that the attempted murder of one of the detectives was instigated by one of the men.

The reason ascribed by de Martini for the alleged attempted murder is that the detective's "cut" of the proceeds of a large swindle was not sufficient to satisfy him.

Simultaneously with de Martini's startling accusations, Michael Gallo, alleged to have been the man marked for the intended murder, made a statement in his cell at San Quentin penitentiary placing the blame for the murder of Deputy Game Warden Bert Blanchard, in Contra Costa county some time ago, upon two members of his own gang. He said that the men who had been arrested for shooting birds out of season believed that they were really being taken to jail for their larger crimes and when the opportunity presented itself, murdered the arresting officer.

De Martini says he hired five thugs to hold up Gallo, rob him and kill him on the "Barbery Coast" but that when they were convinced their victim had no money, the hired assassins let him go. This, he says, was just after Gallo had fleeced a woman out of $5,000.

It was upon charges made first by de Martini and partly confirmed later by two of his associates, that the investigation which had resulted so far in the eight suspensions was started.

It was announced by officials of the Pittsburg Coal company tonight that men entered the mine yesterday morning. The officials stated that 75 men are known to have made their escape after the explosion.

Of the 35 bodies taken from the mine, 19 have been identified.

The rescue workers from the United States bureau of mines and the squads maintained by the various coal companies in the Monongahela valley worked steadily today to penetrate the inner workings of the mine, but met with little success.

The rescuers were able to reach a point only one mile from the pit mouth. Three miles of workings remain to be explored.

BELGIAN STRIKE IS CALLED OFF

MINERS ONLY ONES TO OPPOSE ACTION

Whole Country Rejoices Over Resumption of Business in All Lines

BRUSSELS, April 24.—A plenary convention of the Social Labor party voted today for an immediate resumption of work by the strikers, the vote being 4 to 1 in favor of a peaceful settlement.

M. Vandervelde, the Socialist leader, in a long speech, carefully explained the important advantages gained by the vote in the chamber of deputies, which opened the way for the revision of the constitution as desired by all workers.

Other leaders followed in the same vein, urging peace and declaring that the strike had accomplished all that could be hoped for and that confirmation of their wishes now only was a matter of time.

"The commission which will be named to consider the reform of the electoral system," said M. Desreux, "will be presided over by the spirit of constitutional revision."

Opposition to the settlement for the most part came from the delegates of the miners' union in the Borinage and Center districts and the textile workers of Verviers who declared that their unions did not consider that enough had been gained.

Strike Called Off.
The congress, however, after a five hours' session, formally called off the strike, at the same time continuing the special committee on the general strike and universal suffrage. After adjournment, the delegates notified their various districts of the decision. There were no demonstrations of any kind. The action of the congress seems generally to have been received with favor, but the miners may refuse to work for a time. A general resumption is expected tomorrow.

That this is the view held by the authorities is shown by the fact that the war minister ordered the withdrawal of the troops as soon as he learned the decision of the convention. There is general rejoicing in the business and industrial circles, particularly those identified with the exploitation at Ghent. Arrivals at the leading hotels in Brussels have tripled since the chamber's action on Tuesday, regarded as peace.

The extra-parliamentary commission on electoral reform, it is announced, will be nominated next week. It will consist of 21 members drawn from political, university and sociological circles.

FRIEDMANN DISREGARDS INQUIRIES FROM THE U. S. PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Communication between the public health service here and Dr. Friedrich E. Friedmann, the Berlin physician who claims to have discovered a tubercular vaccine, practically has ceased, according to information given out today at the health bureau. Surgeon General Blue said Dr. Friedmann had not replied to letters written him by the bureau and that the department merely was waiting the results shown by patients already treated.

Experts for the government are continuing to observe the patients in New York and elsewhere that Dr. Friedmann inoculated with his vaccine, and the laboratory experiments with vaccine cultures are being continued.

No direct reply has been received by the health authorities to their request for more of the vaccine or for information regarding its manufacture, nor has there been a response to the letter recently sent the doctor regarding the "halting progress" in his demonstration of the alleged curative value of his discovery.

NEW YORK, April 24.—For the first time since he began treatment of tuberculous in this city with his vaccine, Dr. F. E. Friedmann administered second injections today. He gave them to 12 of his 52 patients in the Hospital for Consumptives and Joint Diseases, where also he treated 19 new patients. This hospital was not designated by the government surgeons for clinics and the work here will not be considered in official reports.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 24.—Mrs. Alice Williamson, one of a family of 11, who traveled from Los Angeles to this city, so that her husband and two other members of her family could be treated for tuberculosis by Dr. Friedrich Franz Friedmann, was buried today. The woman died of pneumonia.

The three members suffering from tuberculosis were treated by the German physician soon after their arrival. Mr. Williamson is at a local hospital.

GOV. JOHNSON UPHOLDS STATE

UPHOLDS STATE

"If There Is Any Discrimination," He Says, "U. S. Is to Blame"

BRYAN LEAVES WASHINGTON

California Chief Executive in Hot Rejoinder Replies to Criticism

SACRAMENTO, CAL., April 24.—Not the dignity of Japan, but the dignity of California, is at stake in the controversy over the antilabor law, according to Governor Johnson, and if the plans of the majority party here give offense to the government at Tokyo, the California executive absolves the state from blame on the ground that federal statutes already have drawn the line which the state now seeks to establish.

In a statement issued today, Governor Johnson designed the position of the legislature in the matter, stating that Secretary of State Bryan, who is enroute from Washington to Sacramento to present the views of the federal administration, might learn thereby the attitude of California toward a law denying land ownership in the state to aliens barred from citizenship in the nation. That this restriction applies to the subjects of Japan or any other nation is not the fault of California, according to the views of the governor.

Law Being Drafted.
Such a law is being drafted tonight by Senator Thompson. It will be known as the alien land act and will apply solely to members of foreign races described in federal laws and judicial decisions as ineligible to citizenship in the United States.

When Secretary Bryan arrives he will be confronted with the new draft of the bill and the question of whether or not he will discontinue it. Governor Johnson's view on this point is set forth in his statement as follows:

"The nation has solemnly decreed that certain races, among whom are the Japanese, are not eligible to citizenship. The line has been drawn, not by California, but by the United States. Discrimination, if it ever occurred, came and went when the nation declared who were and who were not eligible to citizenship. If California follows the line marked out by the federal government, the United States and not California should be accused of discrimination."

Bill May Pass.
If the justice of this view is conceded by Secretary Bryan in the conference he will hold with the governor and members of the legislature there is little doubt that the Thompson bill will pass, unless Secretary Bryan states reasons of great urgency and can convince the leaders here that such action by the California legislature would precipitate a grave crisis.

The Democrats in both houses have conceived the idea of calling a conference of the governors of Oregon, Washington, Nevada and Arizona to meet with Secretary Bryan and Governor Johnson next week, with a view to bringing about concerted action on the alien land questions. Resolutions will be introduced in both houses tomorrow directly that invitations be telegraphed to the executives of these states.

RAIN AND WIND ADD TO FLOOD SUFFERING

Levees of Lower Mississippi Threatened — 1,000 Men Work at New Orleans

VICKSBURG, Miss., April 24.—A terrific rain and wind storm that swept the lower Mississippi valley from Natchez north to Arkansas City intensified suffering among refugees in the district affected by the crevasse near Natchezville, Miss., today.

Food is being rushed to all of the nearby towns.

Water is nearly to the Atchafalaya river levee just at Melville, La., and a break is feared at any moment.

GREENVILLE, Miss., April 24.—Governor Brewer was appealed to today by the board of levee commissioners of Mississippi to call an extraordinary session of the state legislature, that a $100,000 fund might be provided for levee construction in the Third Mississippi river district, which extends from Rendles to a point 20 miles south of Vicksburg.

NEW ORLEANS, April 24.—A thousand men are working tonight to complete a section of unfinished new levee back of the old main line Mississippi river levee at Remy, 41 miles up the river from here, having to save a large area from inundation.

The old levee has not broken, but is caving rapidly and threatens to go out at any minute.

WHAT THE NEWSPAPER HAS DONE FOR THE WORLD, AS TOLD BY 'THOSE WHO KNOW'

Secretary of Navy Daniels, Erstwhile Editor, Delivers Humorous Speech, Though Just Informed That His Plant Has Burned Down

NEW YORK, April 24.—Members of the newspaper craft, publishers and editors from all sections of the country gathered tonight at the annual joint banquet of the Associated Press and the American Newspaper Publishers association, held at the Waldorf-Astoria, with the secretary of the navy, Joseph Daniels, owner of the Raleigh (N. C.) News and Observer, as the principal speaker. Just before the dinner began Secretary Daniels received the unwelcome news from Raleigh that his newspaper plant had been totally destroyed by fire. The secretary said that as soon as the banquet was over he would return to Raleigh, although he had intended to remain in this city over another night to attend the dinner to James Bryce, the British ambassador.

More than 700 exponents of the American "Fourth Estate" attended the dinner, together with a number of invited guests not engaged in journalism. A vaudeville performance given by professional entertainers preceded the speechmaking. Speakers besides Secretary Daniels included Charles E. Miller of the New York Times, hostmaster; President Charles A. Richmond of Union College, Charles H. Grasty of the Baltimore Sun, Norris G. Osborn of the New Haven Journal and Courier, Bernard H. Ridder of the New York Staats Zeitung, Congressman Frank L. Greene of the St. Albans (Vt.) Messenger, and Dr. George Alexander, chaplain.

The Newspaper Test.
Secretary Daniels, in his speech, which charmingly alternated with humor and seriousness, said that among the presidents he singled out Lincoln and Wilson for "highest praise," because "each went outside of the field of politics to secure an editor as secretary of the navy."

For 30 years, Mr. Daniels said, he had been engaged in sea service, in command of a gunboat on the Sea of Japan.

WORLD PEACE PLANS GIVEN TO DIPLOMATS

General Proposal Would Have Nations Enter Pact to Avoid War

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Secretary Bryan's plan for international peace agreements was submitted to the diplomatic corps today, with practically every ambassador and minister in Washington present. The diplomat had assembled at the state department upon the secretary's invitation to hear the proposal explained.

Later in the day, President Wilson made known his views upon the plan at an informal conference with newspaper men at the White House. The president talked of the subject in a general way indicating that the details would be worked out by negotiations. The general proposal he has in mind is that the contracting nations should never go to war over any dispute before there has been an investigation of the facts involved. The plan would be not to bind the nations to abide by any decision of the investigating committee but merely to effect a suspension of judgment until impartial persons have looked into the circumstances at issue.

Would Limit Armaments.
As originally submitted to the senate foreign relations committee, the draft of the plan contained a sentence bearing upon the suspension of warfare preparations during the period of investigation, but this was stricken from the copy distributed formally to members of the diplomatic corps today. The president's explanation of (Continued on Page Two.)

35 BODIES TAKEN FROM MINE GRAVE

Eighty Still Are Unaccounted for and Death List May Grow

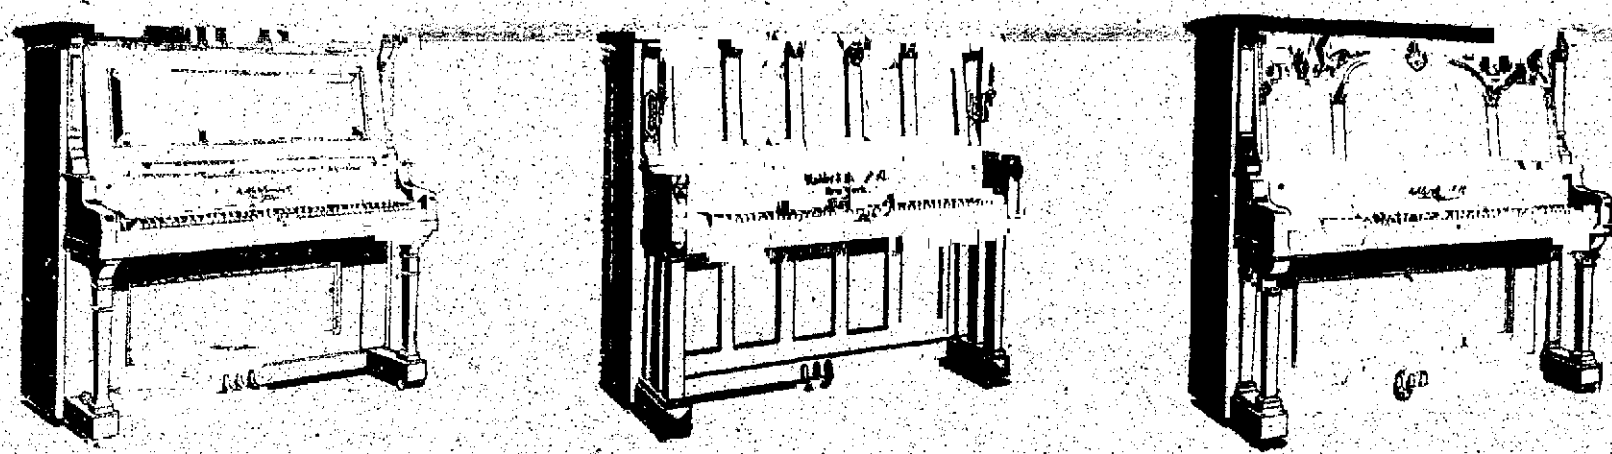

PITTSBURGH, April 24.—When darkness fell tonight, 35 bodies had been taken from the Cincinnati mine of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke company, a subsidiary of the Pittsburg Coal company, at Fairview, the scene yesterday of a disastrous explosion. Many other bodies, it is said, have been located but the greatest difficulty is being experienced in finding means to convey the bodies through wreckage to the surface.

Eighty miners are unaccounted for tonight.

Hopes of relatives and friends of the missing men that their loved ones are living are being disappointed slowly. Rescuers are unable to reach the inner workings of the mine on account of gas, water and debris.

It was announced by officials of the Pittsburg Coal company tonight that men entered the mine yesterday morning. The officials stated that 75 men are known to have made their escape after the explosion.

Of the 35 bodies taken from the mine, 19 have been identified.

founded on adequate information were opposed in a minority report presented to the house today by Representative Victor Morduck of Kansas, the Progressive member of the Ways and Means committee.

Mr. Morduck in his report asserted that if there had been waiting three of the necessary three tariff commissions, the pending Democratic tariff bill would supply it.

He charged that as a result of the methods used in the preparation of the few who drafted it were not warned in feeling, thereby as to its effect and most of those who have introduced it to congress have other than a superficial knowledge of its provisions.

Mr. Morduck declared the Democratic party has proposed a tariff which will be injurious to many industries and may be destructive to some.

"Under the guise of reducing the cost of living," he said, "it may destroy the very basis of our industrial prosperity. Proposing and promising to cheapen the food and clothing of the workingman, it may take from him the very means by which he may earn his livelihood."

Tariff discussion was on again today in both the senate and the house.

ITCHING ON HANDS, ARMS AND LEGS

Whole Body on Fire. Little White Blisters. Scratched and Formed Sore. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured in Less Than 10 Days.

1754 O'Farrell St., San Francisco, Cal.—"The itching I had started with an itching on my hands, arms and legs. In fact it seemed my whole body was on fire. It began between my fingers with little white blisters which I scratched and they formed into a very raw sore which itched terribly. I used to get relief by squeezing the little pimples out whenever they itched, and for the time being it gave me comfort, then they would start itching again. I kept on squeezing, which of course took the scab off each time, and then the sores got bigger and bigger till I had no rest at all. My body was like a spotted leopard covered with sores of all sizes. I was covered with small sores big as one's little finger nail. I had them on the top of my head and they itched so I used to keep me from putting a comb on it. All I used was a soft brush. Water used to make it burn and it didn't feel very pleasant to use it. Doing my regular work bothered me, as I have to use my hands constantly. I had to leave my work twice a week on account of it. I tried all patent and advertised remedies, which did me no good. I didn't know what a good night's sleep was for over four months until I took to the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In less than ten days I was cured and have been in good health since." (Signed) L. Greenman, May 14, 1912.

sides of the Capitol. There were informal conferences between senators and the house met an hour earlier than usual.

Representative Peters of Massachusetts, a member of the ways and means committee majority which framed the Democratic bill, was among the speakers on the Democratic side today presenting an elaborate argument in defense of the committee measure. Leaders of all three parties have been confined with a disposition of their colleagues to delay speeches until the latter part of the time allotted to general debate, which will expire Monday night.

Before the debate was resumed, Senators Bailett and Thornton of Louisiana, and two Louisiana growers called on Majority Leader Underwood and pleaded for more time before the proposed 25-per-cent reduction on sugar apes into effect.

Mr. Underwood, it is understood, assured his visitors that the request could not be entertained. Representative Hammond of Minnesota, opened the day's discussion in support of the bill.

The house attendance was depleted by the departure of more than 100 representatives on a special train for New York to attend a banquet as guests of a celebration of the opening of an office building.

Hammond Conservative. After a long, involved discussion of various tariff theories, Representative Hammond argued a middle course between high protection and absolute free trade.

"The Democratic party is not a free trade party," he declared, "and so far as I can find it has never declared for free trade." He undertook to show that the Underwood bill was drawn strictly in accordance with the tariff for revenue only principle.

In a detailed discussion of rates, Mr. Hammond endorsed the placing of flour on the free list. He explained the keeping of the duty on wheat while wheat flour was placed on the free list by holding that as a manufacturing proposition the millers of the United States were able to buy American wheat and it was found and expensive with the finished product in the markets of the world.

"On this basis they surely can compete at home," he said.

Republican Caucus.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—By unanimous vote the Republican senate caucus today agreed there should be no general repudiation of President Wilson for the Democratic side of the tariff negotiations in the last session of congress but that Republican opposition would be shown in the following cases: In appointments to the consular service or to minor diplomatic posts, such as secretaries of embassies or legations where the merit system is sorted to by former President Roosevelt and tariff was not followed where vacancies are created by removals from office, which carry fixed tenure, unless made for cause, and particularly where removals are made from office which require technical or special knowledge.

In pursuance of this policy the Republican senators in executive session tonight determined to oppose the nomination of a dozen postmasters until an investigation could be made as to the reason for vacancies in those cities. Postmasters from the home towns of senators were approved without opposition. Several minor appointments from that department of justice also were approved.

WORLD PEACE

The mission was that it was deemed advisable to eliminate details at this time and leave such points to be determined by negotiation with each particular nation.

The president considers that the plan of limiting armaments is feasible only if every nation enters into a general arrangement. He recognizes that if two nations agree not to make preparations for war a third might encroach on either one of the inactive nations.

General Statement.

"The statement presented to the diplomatic representatives," said Secretary Bryan, "is only intended to set forth the main proposition, namely that the president desires to enter into an agreement with each nation for the investigation of all questions of every nature. This agreement is intended to supplement the arbitration treaties now in existence and those that may be made hereafter. Arbitration treaties already exist, except some questions from arbitration. The agreement proposed by the president is intended to close the gap and leave no dispute that can become a cause for war without investigation."

"The time within which the report is to be made is left to be agreed upon and it may be that the time will differ in different cases, but any time, however short, furnished an opportunity for investigation and deliberation and it is hoped that the period provided for investigation and deliberation will be sufficient to secure a settlement without resort to war."

"Each party is to reserve the right to act independently after a report is submitted but it is not likely that a nation will declare war after it has had an opportunity to confer, during the investigation, with the opposing nation."

"But whether the proposed agreement accomplish as much as is hoped for it is at least a step in universal peace and I am pleased to be the agent through whom the president presents this proposition to the powers represented here."

Marshall Throws Bomb Into Camp of Scientists

WASHINGTON, April 24.—In an address here tonight at the banquet of the National Academy of Sciences, which concluded today the celebration of its fiftieth anniversary meeting, Vice President Marshall criticized the scientific "salonists" and "experts," whose services, he said, could be required in legislative assemblies and in the courts of the country for from $50 to $100 to testify to any side of any question.

Dr. William L. Walsh of Johns Hopkins university was elected president of the National Academy of Sciences. Ten American scientists were elected members of the academy.

WHAT THE NEW PAPER

and audacious naval officer since the days of John Paul Jones.

Two presidents in the last half-century, Mr. Daniels said, had given evidence of fitness for wise exercise of the high duties of the great office in the world. They were Woodrow Wilson and Abraham Lincoln—both men who were to go to get a secretary of the navy. Lincoln appointed Gideon Welles, editor of the Hartford Times; Wilson appointed Josephus Daniels, editor of a North Carolina paper.

Must Be on the Job.

"The fact of a secretary of the navy is whether he is a good managing editor," Mr. Daniels said. "John McCulloch, managing editor of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, once told a young man who wanted to wear his mantle after he had gone to the place where all good editors go. 'You need but one qualification—you must know where you will break loose next and have a man on the spot.' If the secretary of the navy is a good managing editor, he will know where trouble will break loose next and be ready with a well-manned ship on the spot."

"These two presidents understood that what was needed was not so much a man who could talk in the sailor vocabulary of port and starboard, as a managing editor."

"Speaking of the new administration at Washington," Mr. Daniels concluded, "let me say it has no policy of concealment. It appeals not to any group or class, but to the whole people of America and it realizes that it will win their approval only as it carries out its pledges and meets the just needs of the people who oppose privilege and demand only a fair change. It invites criticism in all that it does. It wishes to have the searchlight of publicity turned on all its acts."

In closing the program Charles H. Coates pointed out the worldwide influence of publicity, particularly as shown in Japan, where the printing press had made known the arts of peace and war, and an oriental people had adapted them in a single generation. "What we of the white race have given them without money and without price," said the speaker, "may at some future time raise up against us an enemy in a little yellow race, the males of which are scarcely five feet high and weigh scarcely a hundred pounds, but as fighters on land and sea are as good as any man for man. There is but one big difference between this whirlwind-like development and the slow processes of hundreds of years in the days of Greece and Rome, when civilization had to be personally conducted in its march westward, and that difference is the printing press and the associated influence of steam and electricity."

CIVIL WAR VETERAN DIES AT AGE OF 72

After a lingering illness, R. C. Hill, 72 years old, a veteran of the Civil war, died this morning at 1:30 o'clock at his home, 319 East Dale street. He came here 15 years ago from Mercer county, Pennsylvania. Mr. Hill is survived by his widow and six daughters, three of whom reside in Colorado Springs, two in Pennsylvania and one in California. The daughters here are Miss Victoria Hill, bookkeeper for the Perkins-Shearer company; Miss Annie Hill, a nurse, and Mrs. F. E. Bumstead. The funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Sec. Bryan Explains Substitution Grape Juice at His Dinner

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Comment upon the substitution of unfermented grape juice for the wine usually served on such occasions at the dinner given by Secretary and Mrs. Bryan Monday evening in honor of Ambassador Bryce, caused the secretary to issue a statement today explaining the incident. In it for the first time Mr. Bryan made public that the question of how the fact that it was contrary to the customs of the Bryan household to serve wines would be received in official society, was discussed with President Wilson before he accepted the portfolio of state.

The statement follows: "We did not intend to magnify, by mentioning it, the importance of the moment of wine at the dinner given to Ambassador Bryce Monday night, but as the papers have made some inaccurate references to the matter, the facts might as well be known."

"This was the first dinner which we have given to members of the diplomatic corps and therefore the first time when we came into conflict with the social custom of serving wine at dinner. The seven different ambassadors then in the city and their ladies were invited to meet Ambassador and Mrs. Bryce and as all the gentlemen guests were from foreign countries, I thought it proper to explain to them the reason for our failure to conform to what seems to have been customary in this matter."

Explained Situation.

"Believing that the issue should be met frankly in the beginning, I told them when we sat down to the table that Mrs. Bryce and I had been teetotalers from our youth, as were our parents before us, and had never served liquor at our table; that when the president was kind enough to tender me the portfolio of state, I asked him whether his failure to serve wine would be any embarrassment to the administration and that he generously left the matter to our discretion. I suggested that I thought it unfair to assume that those coming to the United States would judge us harshly or be unwilling to tolerate the maintenance of a traditional custom and expressed the hope that our friendship would be made so apparent to them and our hospitality so cordial that they would overlook weakness in us. If they regarded it as a weakness, my remarks were applauded by the company and we never spent a more enjoyable evening."

"That is all there is to the matter and we can consider the incident closed and the custom established so far as we are concerned."

HATFIELD WARNS MINERS THAT STRIKE MUST CEASE

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 24.—The special convention of West Virginia miners, involved in the coal strike of Kanawha county, up to midnight failed to take a vote on the proposition of Gov. H. D. Hatfield for a settlement of the trouble. At midnight Governor Hatfield gave warning that "this strike and dissension must cease within 24 hours."

RENTINGTON, W. Va., April 24.—A temporary injunction was granted by Circuit Judge Graham here tonight restraining union organizers from coaching 125 miners employed by the New River Coal company at Ottawa, Boone county, into joining the union. An action has been directed against national and local officers of the United Mine Workers of America.

SUPREME COURT TAKES UP APPLICATION ROADS FOR EXTENSION OF TIME

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The supreme court today took under consideration the application of attorneys for the Union Pacific Railroad company to authorize the circuit judges sitting as the district court of Utah to extend in their discretion the time in which the Union Pacific Railroad company must dispose of its stock in the Southern Pacific.

Attorney General McInerney opposed granting authority to the lower court to extend the time without limit and was allowed two days to file a brief. Former Senator John T. Spooner presented the application in behalf of the railroad and filed a long brief outlining the various plans presented to the government for the disposition of the stock, and finally concluded with a statement that it was necessary in order that the interests of no one be sacrificed to grant more time for carrying out the decree of the supreme court directing the Union Pacific to dispose of its Southern Pacific shares. With the two days granted to the attorney general, permission was given to the railroad attorneys to file a reply. The attorney general declared he was agreeable to an extension until July 1, but opposed any indefinite extension of an authorization for the justice of the supreme court in his discretion during the summer recess to grant another extension.

EUROPE FACES

ate combined action to turn the Montenegrins out of Scutari, or we shall do it alone," declared a circular note sent by the Austro-Hungarian government to the powers today. The note is virtually an ultimatum.

Austria-Hungary declares she cannot permit the Montenegrins to float the decision of the great powers. The prestige of the European nations has been violated, says the note, and Austria-Hungary demands that the powers decide promptly on the steps to be taken to restore that prestige, adding that if the powers should be unable to reach a speedy decision she will see to it herself that the will of Europe is respected and that the Montenegrins vacate Scutari.

King Nicholas Defiant.

CETTINIE, April 24.—Scutari is from today Montenegrin, says the defiant reply of King Nicholas today to the European invitation to surrender the hard-won Turkish capital.

The king made this statement in the course of a speech delivered from the balcony to the royal palace. Among his auditors were the ministers of the Balkan states, who came to congratulate him. He added: "Should Europe still think of snatching Scutari from Montenegro, which she has given her life blood to take, Europe will have to carry out the task by force of arms."

Situation Is Critical.

BERLIN, April 24.—There are many indications here today that the German government and public regard the European situation as critical. A high diplomatic official said today: "Europe has entered another crisis as grave as that which preceded the Austro-Russian demobilization."

The press bureau of the German foreign office, contrary to its custom, was not prepared to day with a statement either in regard to the ultimatum to Montenegro or the general situation. An official, however, believed it probable that force would have to be employed to expel the Montenegrins from Scutari.

The official view here is that all the European powers will work together until the problem has been solved.

PRESIDENT SLOCUM BREAKING GROUND FOR F. H. COSSITT MEN'S BUILDING

IMPORTANCE PHYSICAL EDUCATION EMPHASIZED AT GROUND BREAKING

Other. Here should be created men with noble souls, keen intellects and sound bodies. These should all exist in every college graduate. Both the soul and body must have their highest possible development to make the true man. No one has a right to be less, either physically or spiritually, than he can possibly be. The condition of either, erects powerfully upon the other. The most normal mind and body go together. A library will not make a perfect man; neither will a gymnasium and an athletic field. More than the life of a recluse or that of society. Man is a many-sided creature, and it takes many conditions and varieties of environment to unfold his possibilities. The college seeks to develop a person on all sides. The time will come when one becomes tired of the best gymnasium and as well of the best library or laboratory. It is only as he gets a proper amount of each that he finds the value of all.

Most colleges have made student life too one-sided. The one is all athletics; to another the mental life is all and all; with another the social opportunity dominates everything and therefore it is that a man often leaves college inadequately prepared for his life work.

Are Equally Important.

Neither should these be so much differentiated one from the other that there is little or no relation of one to the other. They are all part of the whole. They should be brought into the closest connection. The gymnasium with its scientific physical training should be a part of the education of every man or woman, just as much a part as his mathematics, English or philosophy. One is just as important as the other, and therefore should have just as much recognition in college standing and credit. We shall never secure the best results until this is recognized and every student receives his marks for physical training just as much as he does for intellectual. Physical culture should be placed upon just as scientific a basis as mental and should hold equal rank in a college curriculum. Just as long as a sound mind can only be secured in a sound body the training of a human being involves the production of both.

With all this in mind, years ago it was decided that Colorado college should some day have facilities for carrying out this ideal and there should be a way of coordinating both sides of this education. Most gymnasiums emphasize and force to a greater or less degree the training of the body, and give only a very little or no attention to the spiritual being or his social instincts, just as too often mental training disregards the place and the importance of physical education.

True Education Is Harmonious.

All true education is related to and touches a man at every point. It affects his manners, his dress, the way he eats and drinks, his actions in a dining room, a parlor or on the street. It modifies his conversation, the way he stands or sits down on addressing himself to another human being; his play and his toil; his thoughts, his feelings and his choices.

It was this truth that led to the erection of the building for which we break ground this morning. It is not merely a gymnasium or a commons or a dining hall. It is all of these together. It emphasizes the social side, and the play instincts, as a means to an end. The three meals a day are all just so much opportunity for the perfection of a human being.

The building, however, is not a mission as a church, a lecture hall or a library. Its work is just as important, and should be treated with just as much respect and consideration. Therefore it is that Colorado college, waiting for the building which is worthy of those high ideals that led to its foundation and its development. This building is to inaugurate a new and same movement for physical training and good sports for every student in the college. Let this be the day that marks the first that every one is to have his own work in physical culture and also his own sport.

Reconstruction Necessary.

Our American athletics as conducted in college, need radical reconstruction. In place of expending large sums of money upon intercollegiate competitive games, where the few who need it least are usually overtrained for the one purpose of beating the teams of another institution, the time is at hand when every student should have his sport and his course in physical training. A tennis racket, a golf stick, a hockey club, a pair of walking shoes should be just as much a part of the outfit of a person coming to college as a Latin grammar or a book on English composition, and the center of all such life should be a building of a well-trained director. Already this movement has been started at Colorado college this spring, in the organization of the various teams representing many organizations, which are having friendly competition for a trophy. This is true sport and play. I trust the time has come when the man or woman at this college who does not have his special sport, in which he enters heartily will not be regarded as having full standing in the life of the institution, just as it is at the English universities, where every student is required to enter in, or play cricket. Not only this, but I trust there will be established full courses in physical culture into which every student is required to enter. Under careful professional advice, for which he will receive credit, just as much as in any other college course. Good, scientific exercise under compe-

of American citizenship. Its erection will make possible in all the years to come, the realization of these ideals of which we have spoken for the young men of this college.

This is one reason why we bless her this day and send her our loving greetings. It is for us and those who follow us, in accepting this gift to see that her wishes are followed and that we treat this structure with that respect which marks our high appreciation of her generosity. May this building, the first step in whose erection we take this morning, help to make strong and true men who will render their share in the making of a nation and serving in the kingdom of God in the wide world.

GOV. JOHNSON UPHOLDS

among the majority who, having asserted their right as a state to act, now declare that such a conference would only serve to cloud the issue.

Bryan Leaves Washington.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—William Jennings Bryan, secretary of state, left Washington at 8:45 o'clock tonight over the Pennsylvania railroad for Sacramento, Cal., where on Monday he will begin consultations with Governor Johnson and members of the California legislature in an effort to frame an antislavery law that will not be in conflict with treaty obligations of the United States with Japan.

"I go, hopefully, yet with a realization of the responsibility involved," said the secretary as he left the White house after a final conference with President Wilson. The president had explained earlier in the day, during his conference with the newspaper men, that the purpose of Mr. Bryan's visit was to take counsel with the California authorities as to the best way to avoid international difficulty.

Japan Not Antagonistic.

The president let it be known that he considers the attitude of the Japanese government in arguing its case proper and friendly and that there had been no note of antagonism despite reports to the contrary. The position of the Tokyo government having been one of respectful urgency that no discrimination be made against their people. Inquiries as to just what Japan would consider a discrimination brought forth the information from the president that with the eligibility of the Japanese to citizenship still a debatable question it would be difficult to define just what would be construed as a discrimination.

Mr. Bryan himself declared later that he went with no specific instructions, but simply with the general idea that discrimination aimed directly at the Japanese should be avoided if possible. The secretary will keep in touch with the president by telegraph and until his arrival in Sacramento the administration is in hopes that no action will be taken in California.

RAYMOND HITCHCOCK IN "THE RED WIDOW"

The attraction at the Grand, Monday, April 28, will be Raymond Hitchcock in the sensational musical play "The Red Widow" by Channing Pollock, Reinhold Voigt, and Charles J. Gehest, and presented under the direction of Cohan and Harris. Mr. Hitchcock appears in the play as Cicero Hannibal Butts, a retired millionaire corset manufacturer, who is making his first tour of Europe. While in London Mrs. Butts becomes an ardent suffragette, leaves her husband to make a trip to Russia alone. On the eve of his departure from London he meets a charming young woman who induces him to allow her to cross the Russian frontier on his passport made out to Mr. and Mrs. Butts. When the couple arrive in St. Petersburg, she reveals herself as a nihilist, and knows to the police as "The Red Widow."

RAYMOND HITCHCOCK In "The Red Widow" at the Grand Opera House, Monday, April 28.

While her desire is to kill the czar, Butts tries to escape from his surroundings but is confronted with the widow's band of nihilists. The play is in three acts. The first takes place in the foyer of the Alcazar Music hall, London. The second occurs at the leading hotel in St. Petersburg. The third act is laid in the garden of the czar's winter palace where a "white cat" is in progress. Mr. Hitchcock will be assisted by Flora Zabelle as

To the Young Expectant Mother

Women of Experience Advise the Use of Mother's Friend.

There is a certain degree of trepidation in the minds of most women in regard to the subject of motherhood. The longing to process is often contradicted by the inherent fear of a painful delivery. But there need be no such dread in view of the fact that we have a most noble remedy in what is known as Mother's Friend. This is an external application that has a wonderful influence and control over the muscular tissues of the abdomen. As it daily uses the muscles, cords, tendons and ligaments all gently expand without the slightest strain; there is no pain, no nausea, no nervousness, what was dreaded as a severe physical ordeal becomes a calm, serene, joyful anticipation that has its impressive such as a woman's face.

Mothers are striving to drill into the minds of the present generation. "In almost every community there are women who have used Mother's Friend, and they are the ones that recovered quickly, conserved their health and strength to this present generation destined by every rule of physiology and the history of successful men and women to repeat the story of greater achievement than their fathers."

Write them for their instructive book to expectant mothers. You will find Mother's Friend on sale by all drug stores at $1.00 a bottle.

Artistic Improvement at College Campus Entrance

ENTRANCE TO COLORADO COLLEGE
MAURICE D. DISCOE ARCHITECT DENVER & COLORADO SPRINGS

PLAN FOR NEW ENTRANCE TO COLORADO COLLEGE CAMPUS

Work already has commenced on this improvement which will change the appearance of Tejon and Cache la Poudre streets to a great extent. The entrance will be set back 65 feet, and will be made as wide as Tejon street. Ten trees will be set on each side of the entrance, eight set flush with Cache la Poudre street, and 12 inside the campus. The new entrance will add much to the attractiveness of the grounds.

SPRINGS ORGANIZATIONS PLAN SECOND AUTO LOG

Plans for the issuance of a second edition of the automobile log book, published last year by the Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the Colorado Springs Automobile club and El Paso County Good Roads association, are under consideration by the advertising committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

This booklet contains some 40 or 50 logs of roads radiating from Colorado Springs, and has been pronounced one of the most effective advertising mediums ever published by the Chamber of Commerce or any western commercial organization.

The logs were prepared by President Leonard E. Curtis of the Automobile club, and cover not only the main roads, but also many delightful but less frequented trips in the Pikes Peak region. In addition, there is incorporated a complete log of the Lincoln highway-Golden-Belt route from Colorado Springs to Kansas City. This has since been extended to Buena Vista, and officials of the Lincoln highway now are engaged in completing the log through to the Utah line. In addition, the Chamber of Commerce has been in correspondence with automobile clubs, commercial organizations and good roads advocates in Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Missouri and other states, and is securing a great deal of new material which will be incorporated in the new book.

AEROPLANE IN A COAT OF ARMS

From the Springfield Republican.

Battle axes and other weapons are familiar in heraldic insignia, but the small city of Leichlingen in Germany is likely to have the first arms in which a dirigible balloon is represented. It was at Leichlingen that the German aeroplanist, Erbslohn, constructed the machine on which he met his death. The city, therefore, commissioned an artist to prepare a design showing a dirigible of this type and has petitioned the office of heraldry in Berlin to confirm the design as the city's arms.

STUDENT RECITAL PROF. DIETRICH BIG SUCCESS

By ALBERT C. PEARSON.

Mr. Dietrich gave his eleventh student concert at Perkins hall last night before a large audience. These concerts have become a feature in the musical life of our town and are a factor in the growth of love for orchestral music. For without doubt, there has been an awakening in this direction.

Witness the interest in the park and pavilion concerts, the performances of the Musical club orchestra before the club, and the Sunday afternoons at the Princess by the same organization. But even more satisfactory as a proof of this awakening is the interest shown in orchestral music by students.

To have two such notable evenings as Mrs. Howe's and Mr. Dietrich's in a week makes one very hopeful as to the musical future of our city.

The feature of the concert last night was the quality of the strings, which was surprisingly brilliant and sonorous. Mr. Dietrich has this in his own playing, but he also has another gift that of imparting his ideas to his pupils. He is a born conductor. His musical sense, vitality and will plainly dominated the whole orchestra. The unity thus produced was remarkable, especially as a large number of the 55 musicians are blind.

Of the soloists, Fred Funk, Harry Greenberg, Alfred Kloss (blind) and Oscar Meyers (blind) have been heard before, and certainly added to their reputations. Zola Johnston appeared for the first time, and proved to the audience that she has unusual talent. Guy Greenleaf (blind) also gave a very pleasant impression. Besides these, a little tot, Esther Law, showed that she too, was in the game.

The accompaniments were played in an able way by Miss Lann, Evelyn Tozer, Alfred Kloss and Nelson Brett.

Mr. Dietrich ought to be elated over the results of his and his pupils' work. He is to conduct the musical club orchestra next year, and the club is unanimous as to the wisdom of its choice.

Sen. Thomas Attacks the Supreme Court Word "Unreasonable"

WASHINGTON, April 24.—An attack upon the supreme court for "inserting" the word "unreasonable" in the Sherman antitrust law was delivered today by Senator Thomas of Colorado.

"It is decisions like this," said he, "that lie at the basis of the new doctrine of recall. The decisions ought to be neutralized."

"The consequences of judicial legislation is that no man or corporation can safely proceed upon any line of action because of the uncertainty of the statute, coupled with the power of the construction or change which may make an act criminal and, therefore, punishable in one instance and harmless in another."

The senator has a bill on the subject.

W. C. McDonald at the executive mansion, pleading for a commutation of the death sentence to life imprisonment. However, as Governor McDonald had previously declined to interfere, executive clemency is not expected.

MEN ARE WHITE SLAVES, NOT WOMEN--FLEMING

LOS ANGELES, April 24.—Wealthy men, not girls, are the white slaves in this city, victimized by an organized band of designing young women, according to E. J. Fleming, former city prosecutor. Fleming testified today before the grand jury probing accusations made by a number of girls that the Jonquil, a so-called lodging house conducted by Mrs. Josie Rosenberg, was in fact maintained by several "mailing" protectors, the proprietors acting as procurers for these men.

Fleming asserted that Mrs. Rosenberg, whose hearing charges of prostitution were postponed to await the results of the grand jury probe, to him appeared to be a head of a real business, which drew its support from wealthy men who played "the good fellow" about the cafes of the city. Tribute was immediately levied on such men, Fleming declared, by Mrs. Rosenberg and her cohorts.

George H. Bixby, the Long Beach banker, summoned as a witness in the Rosenberg case, and also waited before the grand jury, still was missing today. A bench warrant was issued for his apprehension when he failed to appear at the calling of the Rosenberg case. Fleming, who was employed as one of Bixby's attorneys, told the

SENSELESS WAR TALK

A REGRETTABLE accompaniment of the present controversy over anti-Japanese legislation in California is the effort of a considerable portion of the press to make a war scare of it. It is perfectly plain that this course is wholly unwarranted, for the Japanese government has made no threatening representations, nor has the American government assumed a defiant attitude. There is not the slightest reason for believing that there is anything in the incident which cannot be settled amicably and without serious difficulty. Yet every day the public is regaled with columns of silly predictions of war and speculations as to its possible outcome.

Probably nowhere in the world is there a group of men more sincerely averse to war than the men who rule Japan, for they know that whatever its final result might be it could only be an unqualified disaster to their country. The people are impoverished and the government is in such desperate financial straits that the task of raising money for such a huge conflict would be almost impossible.

For this reason alone war between the two nations is almost unthinkable, and there are other reasons equally sound which could be depended on to prevent a conflict, if one were impending.

THE STATE INCOME TAX

THE ratification of the income tax amendment a few weeks ago by the necessary majority of states virtually insures the passage of an income tax law by Congress as a part of the fiscal program which also includes tariff revision. This is as much a certainty as if it were already law, and people whose incomes exceed $5,000 a year can expect hereafter to pay a percentage of the excess to Uncle Sam to compensate for the loss of revenue incident to a reduction of the tariff.

There is not likely to be much opposition to this plan, for however burdensome it may be to the rich it certainly is a more just means of raising revenue than the present extortionate tariff system. But when the state levies an income tax, in addition to the one imposed by the federal government, it becomes a more serious matter. And this is what the State of Colorado has done or will have done, if Governor Ammons does not veto the income tax act passed by the closing days of the last legislative session.

We have little patience with the argument against the income tax which denounces it as "a penalty for success" or as "a fine on brains and ability." It simply places the burden of taxation upon those who can best afford to pay. But this does not mean that there is right or justice in a double income tax. The people with large incomes who have paid such a tax to the federal government should not be required to make a duplicate payment to the state government.

Moreover, the state income tax, as provided in the Skinner bill, is inequitable and unnecessarily drastic. For instance, under the term "income" it estimates rental of residence property occupied by the owner. In other words, if you live in your own home, and the assessor estimates the rental value of the property at $10 a month, he charges you up with an income of $120 a year from this piece of property. The effect of such a provision would clearly be to deter people from buying homes and encourage them to be renters, which is obviously an unwholesome economic condition.

Again, the proposed law includes as income all profits derived from the purchase or sale of property, including real estate and farm lands, made within two years. And it authorizes the assessor, in estimating a man's income, to add together the earnings of himself, his wife and his children, and if these exceed $5,000 a year he must pay taxes on the excess. The measure includes several other features which, while admittedly stringent, might be tolerable if it were not that the burden they impose is merely a duplication of the Federal income tax law soon to be passed by Congress.

Governor Ammons has already been petitioned by several of the important commercial bodies of the state to veto the bill. Nobody denies that Colorado needs more revenue, but its financial difficulties can better be solved by economy and honesty in administration than by imposing an additional burden of taxation which is at once unjust and unnecessary.

ANTIALIEN AGITATION

IT IS NOT hard to understand the feeling of Californians toward the Japanese who live in that state. An alien race who differ in color, speech, customs, mode of living and thought as widely as the Japanese from the Americans, may not be objectionable when only a few of them come among us. But it is easy to understand the viewpoint of the people of California who find the Asiatics living in their cities and towns by the thousands, acquiring land and becoming in one sense a part of the body politic. It must be admitted that the situation presents a problem.

But whether or not California is right in its choice of a method of solution is quite another matter. The most obvious point appears to be that in enacting legislation to debar the Japanese from acquiring land it is transgressing its rights as a state and entering upon a domain reserved by the constitution to the Federal government. In other words, it is assuming a right of sovereignty which it does not possess. And in following this course it may involve the Federal government in serious trouble with Japan, without being able to shoulder its own responsibility.

It is one of the defects of our governmental system that the constitution provides no way for the Federal government to curb the state governments in their enactment of laws which might involve our foreign relations. A treaty is the supreme law of the land, and Japan contends that under the existing treaty between the two countries California has no right to discriminate in this manner against its people. But the Federal government cannot coerce California; it can only use persuasion, and this it is doing by sending the Secretary of State to Sacramento to pour cold water over the bellicose legislators.

Just how serious this defect in our governmental system might be can be realized by contemplating the possibilities of this case. True, it is not at all likely that war will result, for commonsense will prevail in both countries. But just suppose the hot-heads here and abroad should rule. Suppose the California legislature enacts its anti-alien law and the Japanese see fit to go to war about it. A world-wide calamity would ensue; both nations would sacrifice many thousands of lives and hundreds of millions of money in short a colossal crime against humanity would be perpetrated. California, having caused a gigantic war, would then call loudly on the Federal government to send fleets and armies to protect it from invasion. And all because the United States government had no constitutional authority to hold in check an irresponsible state legislature.

THE WHITE PLAGUE IN THE SPOTLIGHT
 Through the Kansas City Star.
 Tuberculosis victims from all parts of the United States have sought the alleged cure of Dr. Friedman. There is something inhumanly pathetic in the longing for life and health of these sufferers.

Dr. Friedman may have no cure. But he has afforded one more dramatic presentation of the extent of the "white plague." He has called to the attention of the world people as well as of the sick persons.

Tuberculosis (consumption) is a preventable disease. There is not in every kind of ailment a sharp call to the duty of prevention.

PROFESSIONAL POSTMASTERS

From the Philadelphia Inquirer.
 Postmaster General Burleson is reported as favoring a scheme to take his department entirely out of politics and suggesting a system of professional postmasters who are to serve in any locality that the department may designate. Good men are to be promoted in the interests of the service, so that it is not impossible for the postmaster at Oklahoma City to be sent to New York, while the Philadelphia postmaster might be sent to Texas.

The proposition is not one that is alarming. It is not at all necessary for the postmaster to be a politician, very desirable that he should not be, but he ought to be familiar with the city whose mail he handles. It would take a very long time for a stranger to get to know the peculiar habits and needs of Philadelphia, and a man must have lived in New York city a long time to understand its unusual conditions.

However, putting postmasters on a par with consultants would at least demonstrate the worth or worthlessness of the theory. Usually the best postmasters are business men who have achieved some distinction in their own special work, and who bring to the federal service ability and administrative qualities, which are the fundamental characteristics desired.

We presume, however, that Mr. Burleson will first get rid of as many Republican postmasters as possible before he proceeds to "take the service out of politics."

MEXICAN TROUBLES

From the Washington Star.
 A dispatch from Chihuahua, Mex., tells of acts of brigandage in that state by a rebel band of about 500 men under the command of Herrera, who are apparently out for loot without regard for political conditions. Already an English and an Italian subject have been seized for ransom and have been released only on payment of heavy sums. According to the dispatch $12,400 was extorted in this manner and $20,000 the value of $7,000 were taken in addition.

tion from homes and stores in the town of Nalca. The condition does not bear directly upon the general situation in Mexico, though it reflects the incapacity of the present government to guarantee peace and order south of the international boundary. There has always been more or less brigandage in northern Mexico, and there probably always will be much lawlessness of this character until a strong administration is established.

Conditions in Sonora where the state authorities have refused to recognize the Huerta government, are not improving in the direction of order. The federal commander at Naco has been driven from his position by an army of Yaquis, fleeing into American territory to escape capture. Little remains of the federal authority in that state. At Guaymas a shadow of that authority appears, but it is expected that this will be swept aside in short order. The government at Mexico City seems paralyzed, possibly for lack of funds. It would appear to be waiting for something to happen, presumably recognition by the United States, enabling it to proceed to raise funds by the negotiation of loans.

The United States cannot long withhold its hand. It must soon either recognize the Huerta government or notify it peremptorily of its expectation that order will be restored promptly. In the latter contingency Mexico protests that it is unable to accomplish results without recognition, the issue will squarely be brought before this country in a manner to lead to quick decision.

OLD CONCEPTIONS OF INSANITY SWEEP AWAY

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.
 By Pennsylvania Quakers the first lunatic asylum in America was founded. This was the beginning of a philanthropy that did good where it was most needed. The condition of the insane in the first years was too pitiable for words. It was a long tragedy, and it was not until the present generation came that the methods became really humane and intelligent.

There is fine consistency in the fact that the greatest thing ever done for the so-called insane in America is due to a Pennsylvanian, Henry Phipps of Pittsburgh. What the Quakers began more than a century ago finds its climax in the dedication now of the new Phipps Psychiatric clinic. He has given of his millions for this institution, and Sir William Osler has come over from England to be one of a brilliant company to take part in the program.

Here we have the new conception of what should be done for the diseased in mind. Old ideas of insanity are swept away. Those who are mentally ill are treated as human beings who can be cured. Psychiatry is a foremost branch of medical science. The mental disorder is studied and the remedy is found. The unfortunates are no longer considered outcasts, but are left back by gentle ways and unobtrusive care to mental health.

Changes are made in the old type of institution. Instead of an asylum with the horrors and unhappiness of a first-class hotel, with theater and gymnasium, and elevators and smoking and junking rooms and every possible attraction, a triumph in convenience, fresh air and cheerful living. This is the revolution in the whole proposition. The old kind of treatment made patients worse. The new kind restores their reason and their health. It is a noble work.

The Power of Association

By RUTH CAMERON.

Yesterday morning I sat down to do some sewing in the happiest of moods. And then, as I reached out for my needle and took up the piece of sewing I was doing, I felt a sudden feeling of depression and unhappiness that it actually came upon me as if dark clouds had shut out the bright morning sun.

And what do you think was the reason? Simply this—the last time I had sewed on that particular article I had been in that mood of depression and discouragement, and when I took it up again the wonderful power of association immediately brought back the mood.

What a tremendous force this power of association is! It almost seems as if some actual force like electricity were lurking in that bit of sewing, ready to come to life at my touch.

And what wonderful power it has to make us happy or unhappy, to lend charm or destroy it. The robin's morning call seems a very sweet and happy sound to me. My mother hates it. It seems that one summer when she was a little girl she was very ill. Night after night she lay awake, tortured by pain, and then, just at dawn when the pain subsided, the robins would begin to call to each other and keep it up until sleep had been driven away. That was over 60 years ago, and still she remembers when she hears that sound.

The power of association has much to do with our preferences in the way of names, more, I think, than we realize. If we really try I believe we can trace most of our likes and dislikes in this matter back to people who have borne the name. For instance, I have a deep love for the name David. I have heard it spoken, not because I think it is sweet or beautiful in itself, but for the sake of a boy who bore it. Perhaps you know him too, for he is a little citizen of the world of letters, the friend of Barrie's Little White Bird.

Taste and smell are two of the humblest of our senses. They seem purely physical, whereas hearing and sight are more mental. And yet taste and smell are the commonest channels of this tremendous force of association.

Do you remember in Cranford when Peter's father flogged him for some trick and he ran away? "I was in the store-room helping my mother to make cowslip wine," writes dear Miss Mitford in this wonderful story. "I cannot abide the who now near the scent of the flowers. They turn me sick and faint as they did that day when Peter came home."

And again, is there anything more powerful in all Kipling than that wonderful refrain, "The smell of the warble at Jichtenburg, riding in the rain?" Yes, it certainly is a wonderful thing, this power of association. Nor is it just dreamers like me who think so. Already the scientists have made wonderful use of it in the grilling of criminals and in the treatment of nervous diseases. Who knows what they will do with it before the Twentieth century is past.

HATS

By GEORGE FITCH,
 Author of "At Good Old Siwash"

A hat is a roof for a man. Nature thatched him when she made him but didn't give him any eaves. The hat provides the proper eaves and drainage and keeps the rain from soaking down into the upper story and warping the mental furniture.

Hats have existed for thousands of years, but more severely at some times than at others. There are now about 500 kinds of hats in the world. The Mexican wears a volcano-shaped hat about three feet high with a brim as big as a washbowl. When he takes it off at night he sleeps under it. The college freshman wears a green car which is a great success. This makes a audacity and can be worn in the vest pocket when not in use. In England society among men is divided into two grades. One grade wears the tall silk hat and the other the green golf cap.

The derby hat is worn by many modest men. It is a black felt hat modeled after an ostrich egg and must be protected like an infant. Thousands of derby hats are set upon each year with the most discouraging results. The straw hat is light, cool and also handsome for the first 15 minutes after it is bought. After that it is rained on and looks like a work-basket in its decay. The Panama hat is composed of one-third straw and two-thirds bunk. It is woven under water in the thick of the moon and costs as much as the seller thinks the buyer can be worked for. When a man is seen wearing a vast Panama hat with its brim languidly flapping in the breeze like the edge of a circus tent, it is a sign that he can also be sold automobiles, perfume and hand-made shoes.

The world has various paroxysms of pusey hat. Two years ago millions of pusey hats were sold and men who were getting bald themselves without concern watched their hats grow wither and die. This year no man is a true sport unless he wears a green felt hat with the brim banking down like a cigarette from the lip of an unbranded son.

Most men are slaves to hats, and do not know how to go out of doors without them. Men have burned to death while frantically hunting for their hats. Hats are prominent both in religion and politics. Quakers wear their hats into church and court while the Missouri and Texas statesmen may have the elegance of a Demosthenes, but unless he wears a broad-brimmed felt hat, he might as well quit running in advance.

A LECTURE IN THE FUTURE

From Life.
 The Horse.
 Ladies and gentlemen: Here we have the horse, an animal once used as a means of locomotion and also, for gambling purposes, also as an excuse one year for all the women to get together in a large garden and display their clothes. Take him away, Jake, and show us the Pedestrian.

 This young man, as you see, stands erect upon his feet, this posture having been a familiar one with our ancestors, who actually propelled themselves forward in this primitive method. And now we pass on to the Actor.

 This is a really fine, bona fide specimen, and as a matter of fact, twice a week and every evening he dresses himself in his best clothes and goes through certain grimaces and contortions, which were viewed with great delight by large numbers of people, especially young girls. We come now to the Clergymen.

 Singular as it may seem, a large number of people, both men and women, were in the habit of going to church to talk to them regularly upon the same subjects. The absurdity of the whole affair was that in no instance has it on record that they had the slightest idea of what they were talking about.

Patent Lists Amended.
 Following this first report upon the patents granted to the women inventors of the country, the patent office issued two appendices carrying the list down to February 26, 1895, when patent No. 534,760 was awarded to Sarah J. Root of New Haven, Connecticut, for a locking device for fastening coats.

Since that date the office evidently has assumed that there is no sex in invention, and has not kept separate lists of the women inventors. While fewer than 10 per cent of patents now taken out are in women's names, the wide diversity of their subjects indicates that there is no limitation to the channels followed by the woman inventor. Her patents cover everything from a pin to an automobile, a corset fastener to a steam shovel.

Until the Centennial exposition held in Philadelphia in 1876, little account had been taken of women's inventions. During that year and the year preceding, however, nearly 250 patents had been awarded to women, the subjects ranging from hair crimping pins to steam generators and including many unique household conveniences, as well as appliances for factories, farm implements and clothing. When all these inventions were gathered under one roof and exhibited as the results of feminine ingenuity the interest in women's patents immediately went up several degrees.

Many in Obscure Life.
 It was noted then, as the patent attorney observes is still the case, that many inventions made by women are patented by men. In the early days a large foundry in the city of Troy began to manufacture horse shoes by machinery, turning out one in about three seconds, an unheard-of speed

THE HASKIN LETTER

THE MODERN WOMAN
 XXXI. WOMEN INVENTORS.

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Women are sometimes accused of being deficient in initiative and the fact that so many articles used by women have been patented by men is cited as a proof that they are lacking in inventive power. A patent attorney who has over a quarter of a century's experience in procuring patents, recently said: "I have taken out hundreds of applications for patents from men for things that women need and I believe that more than half of them had really been invented by women and the idea turned over to men who took the credit for it. I remember a couple of years ago a brother and sister came down from Pennsylvania with a model of a fine jelly strainer and fruit press. I knew that the sister got it up and they both admitted it, but she wanted to have the patent taken out in her brother's name because she was sure that it would be successful. I advised her to have it taken out in her own name. She said: 'Nothing I could say would convince her to the contrary, so a good-for-nothing lawyer took her from every indication has always existed largely upon his sister's bounty. I am taking credit for an invention he never would have thought of himself.'"

Notwithstanding this tendency, the United States government has been issuing patents to women for more than a century. The first on record was awarded to Mary Kies, in 1808, for a process of combining silk and cotton threads for the weaving of straw braids for making hats. It was six years before another woman secured a patent, this time for an improved corset. Patents were first granted by the secretary of state and the United States patent office was not established until the year 1836. Eighteen patents had been granted to women before this time. No feminine applicant was granted a patent for three years after the establishment of the patent office and the first patent issued to a woman from that institution was number 1,075, awarded to Ellen Ann R. Hinkins for a new device for building sheds. Between that date and June 18, 1888, nearly 2,000 patents had been granted to women according to a report issued by the patent office that year. As the last patent included in this list was number 16,335, the report would indicate that nearly a third of the patents granted had been issued to women.

The entrance of women into the profession of trained nursing has been responsible for the invention of a large number of hospital, helps and surgical appliances, which have greatly added to the efficiency of the equipment of the average hospital. Invalid chairs, bed tables, electrical appliances, surgeon's instruments, sterilizing machines, inhalers, exercising machines, hot water bags of special design, and an almost unlimited variety of bandages are among the patents taken out by women for conveniences for the sick room.

Business Woman as Inventor.
 The business woman frequently develops an inventive genius. Mrs. Sophia Huelbert of Illinois recently has devised a simple little machine which will open 400 letters a minute. She was in charge of a large mail order department and the possibility of lessening her work gave her the incentive for the invention which is predicted will ultimately make her a rich woman. A number of typewriter appliances have been invented by women, including a guide shield, a new reel and several varieties of pads designed to lessen the noise.

Women are continually inventing new things in the way of wearing apparel, although it is still noteworthy that many of the articles of clothing for women are patented by men. One of the newest patents has been awarded to Mrs. Jennie Swift for an automobile veil which is adjusted by a draw string. Mrs. Swift secured more than $500 from her small patent within a few months. She said: "I was in church when I thought of it and I could hardly wait until I could get home to try my idea. I really couldn't pay attention to the sermon I felt so excited over it. When I tried it it seemed so easy. I don't understand why some other woman did not think of it long ago."

While men are credited with inventing women's clothing, women also have a number of patents which add to the comfort of the masculine attire. A woman in Newark, has invented an elastic waistband to be added to trousers which a number of tailors have used for the comfort of their customers. Women have invented pantalon protectors for bicyclists, several kinds of suspenders, and at least one kind of a collar. More important than any of these, however, is the self-fastening button which was invented by a woman and has been in boon to thousands of lonely bachelors.

Improve Heating Facilities.
 Women always have felt the need of additional heating capacity in their homes so from the time of the first stove down to the present they have

BOSTON, 1; BROOKLYN, 0.

BOSTON, April 24.—Recruits taken at the end of last season from the Northwestern league helped Boston defeat Brooklyn, 1 to 0, in a 12-inning game here today. James, who led the Northwestern league pitchers last year, held Brooklyn to eight hits and struck out nine men. Whaling, his battery mate in the minors, did the receiving for Boston. Allen, who buried for the visitors, allowed but seven hits, but three of them were bunched in the twelfth inning, when the winning run was scored. In the last of the twelfth, James bunted safely, but was forced at second by Connelly, after Marcelline had fouled out. First baseman James doubled over third, sending Connelly to third. Sweeney was walked purposely and Reidman, batting for Seymour, singled second Connelly with the winning run.

ST. LOUIS, April 24.—Cincinnati pounded four pitchers off the mound today and won from St. Louis, 10 to 3. This was the second victory for Cincinnati this season. The batting of Thacker, Clark, Marzens and Konecny featured. Suggs kept the St. Louis hits well scattered.

NEW YORK YACHT CLUB CONSIDERING LIPTON CHALLENGE

NEW YORK, April 24.—The New York Yacht club at a meeting tonight to consider the challenge of Sir Thomas Lipton for the America's cup voted to leave the entire matter of acceptance or rejection, in the hands of a committee of 12 members of the club of which Commodore Dallas B. Pratt will be the chairman. If the committee votes to accept Sir Thomas' challenge under the deed of gift, the club provided tonight that it be empowered to arrange the details of the acceptance and the conditions of the race.

The Royal Ulster Yacht club, through the agency of which Sir Thomas forwarded his challenge for the America's cup, it was announced by the New York Yacht club tonight, had appointed a committee with similar power.

About 250 members of the club attended the meeting tonight and 25 yachts voted. Among the members present was J. P. Morgan, Jr., who was appointed a member of the committee to consider the club's action with reference to the challenge. The other members of the committee are Lewis Cass Ledyard, E. D. Morgan, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Henry Walters, G. Oliver Iselin, C. Ledyard Blair, George W. Baker, Jr., Arthur Curtis James, W. B. Duncan and C. A. Vornack.

Lord Shaftesbury, commodore of the Royal Ulster Yacht club, heads the committee through which Sir Thomas will make his plea for another race. The challenge is an open one with no restrictions such as caused the previous challenge being rejected this year by the New York Yacht club several weeks ago. It specifies that the races shall be subject to the same conditions as the last contest in which he was defeated, namely, the best three out of five races, the first race to be sailed on Tuesday, September 10, 1914. The other races, it provides, are to be sailed on each following Thursday.

The result of tonight's meeting of the New York Yacht club was called to Sir Thomas Lipton. As none of the members of the committee is to have full power with regard to the challenge has been officially notified of his appointment, no statement relative to when the challenge will be considered could be given out. It was expected, however, that a formal reply to Sir Thomas would be ready within a couple of weeks at the latest.

The name of the challenger will be "Shamrock IV" with a length of waterline 75 feet and of cutter rig.

WOODY LEFT GAME IN 8TH; NATIONALS LOST

WASHINGTON, April 24.—President Wilson wrestled with conflicting desires as he watched today's Boston-Washington baseball game. He went to the contest hoping that it would be over in time for him to meet Secretary Bryan at the White House at 5 o'clock for a final conference before the latter took a 6:45 train for the Pacific coast.

The game was close and exciting and reached its climax as the time approached for the president to leave Washington had overcome Boston's lead, tying up the score at two to two, and things were breaking well for the Washington side. The president looked at his watch regretfully and told Secretary Tamm that if his engagement had not been with the secretary of state he might have been tempted to be a little late. He departed reluctantly, receiving an ovation as he went.

When, according to custom, the local fans stood up at the beginning of the seventh inning, Mr. Wilson remained motionless seated. Stand up, Woody, shouted a voice and the president joined in the laughter that followed. He waved his hand to the shouting fan and stood up with the crowd amid cheers of approval.

Miss Eleanor Wilson and Dr. Cary Grayson, one of the naval aides at the White House, accompanied the president. They stayed throughout the contest which fans think would have wound up in Washington's favor if the president could have remained.

A new recruit joined the Zoo yesterday in the person of one William J. Nelson, commonly known as "Bill," an elongated twirling artist who has hopes of landing a regular place on the menagerie aggregation.

Nelson is only 18 years old, but he carries around with him an anatomy that extends some six feet vertically and tips the beam with the pointer set at 180 pounds. He has been pitching ball at Georgetown, his native ball-wick, and in other northern towns for three or four years, and according to all the dope artists is the real article and getting better right along.

He is here for a tryout with Alderman Coughlin's performers and if he shows the stuff expected of him will stick around for the rest of the season. Nelson will go in the box for the first time Sunday against the strong Elitch team. Vernon, a catcher who has shown good form in practice, will be at the receiving end and is working out with the new flinger.

Manager Gall will spring an entirely new and unique stunt on fans this year by having two Zoo teams in the field, to be known as Zoo No. 1 and No. 2. The second team will be picked entirely from local stars who are not quite classy enough for the "majors" but who will be able to do damage to invading teams of similar class. The plan is to give more players a chance to take part in the great national pastime as well as to develop more men for the regular team.

With this plan Gall will be able to give local fans a game every Sunday or holiday and at the same time to have a team traveling to some extent. While on the road the Zoo will be known as the Colorado Springs team and will be strong enough to hold up the fair name of this city in semi-professional circles.

The second team will probably open the season late in May.

TIGERS MEET BOULDER, TERRORS PLAY CENTRAL AND CUTLER CENTENNIAL

For the first time this season all local ball teams will be in action at once tomorrow. The Tigers will meet the University of Colorado at Boulder. Cutler will take on Centennial at Westminster and the Central will adjourn to Pueblo for an important battle with Central High school, the winner of which probably will win the southern Colorado interscholastic championship. All three teams have been going through their paces this week in good shape and will be primed for the battles.

Jackson will work for the Tigers against the varsity nine and is in good shape. The Tigers have not played a regular college game for three weeks, while Boulder showed up well by defeating the Minsters Wednesday by a 7-1 score. Very little is heard of the Aggie team these days. The standings in the college conference are as follows:

C. S. GOLF CLUB POSTS ITS LIST OF HANDICAPS

Indications are that the season of 1913 will be featured by a lively competition at the Colorado Springs Golf club for championship honors. Judging from the handicap list which was announced yesterday the club has some first-class material. A number of the younger players are coming to the front. O. D. Henning is one of the most promising of the youngsters. Although not in the first division of the handicap list it is indicated that he will be among the leaders before the end of the summer.

A 4-3 handicap is the lowest at the Golf club at present. In this division are H. B. Davis, Sr., Percy Hagerman, H. P. Hubbell, W. K. Jewett and F. M. Taylor. O. D. Henning is next with 5 and 4.

SAYS RAILROAD DIVIDENDS
COME FROM SURPLUS FUND
BOSTON, April 24.—Vice President George S. Hobbs of the Maine Central railroad was a witness at today's inquiry before Interstate Commerce Commissioner Charles A. Prouty, into the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad and its subsidiaries, of which the Maine Central is one. Hobbs said that in 1912 the capital stock of the Maine Central was about $10,000,000 and now amounted to nearly $25,000,000. He said that about $5,000,000 represented an old bond and debt structure and went to the Portland Terminal company. $2,500,000 was put at interest, and the remaining $7,500,000 was spent for betterments, acquisition of realties and summer resort property. Hobbs admitted that previous to the New Haven's control of the Maine Central, the road had paid dividends, increased its service and provided betterments without any substantial increase of its capital.
